

Election Denying Nominees
State	Governor	Secretary of State	Attorney General
Alabama	Kay Ivey	Wes Allen	Steve Marshall
Alaska	Mike Dunleavy
Arizona	Kari Lake	Mark Finchem	Abraham Hamadeh
Arkansas	Sarah Huckabee Sanders		Tim Griffin
Connecticut		Dominic Rapini
Florida	Ron Desantis*		Ashley B. Moody
Georgia	Brian Kemp	Brad Raffensperger
Idaho			Raúl Labrador
Illinois	Darren Bailey
Indiana		Diego Morales
Iowa	Kim Reynolds
Kansas	Derek Schmidt		Kris Kobac
Maine	Paul LePage
Maryland	Dan Cox		Michael Peroutka
Massachusetts	Geoff Diehl	Rayla Campbell
Michigan	Tudor Dixon	Kristina Karamo	Matthew DePerno
Minnesota		Kim Crockett
Nevada	Joe Lombardo	Jim Marchant
New Mexico		Audrey Trujillo
New York	Lee Zeldin
Ohio		Frank LaRose	Dave Yost
Oklahoma	Kevin Stitt
Pennsylvania	Doug Mastriano	Appointed by governor

South Carolina	Henry McMaster		Alan Wilson
South Dakota	Kristi Noem
Tennessee	Bill Lee
Texas	Greg Abbott		Ken Paxton
Wisconsin	Tim Michels
Wyoming		Chuck Gray

 Ron DeSantis has declined to state whether he believes Joe Biden is the rightfully elected president of the United States, and instead has suggested through policy proposals that he agrees with voter fraud lies*

Neither Brian Kemp nor Brad Raffensperger, Georgia's incumbent nominees for governor and secretary of state, respectively, supported the lie of a stolen election. However, both used election security and voter fraud as reasons to support restrictive voter legislation since the 2020 election.*

Frank LaRose has clearly stated that the 2020 election in Ohio was legitimate and not stolen. However, he has made other statements around voter fraud and election security that are more in line with election denialism.